THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

THOUSANDS GATHERING IN THE QUEEN CITY OF THE WEST

To Hold Their Supreme Conclave—The Session Likely to Last About Two Weeks—Justus H. Rathbone, the Founder of the Order, Interviewed.

CINCINNATI, June 12.—The Knights of Pythias, called here by the meeting of their supreme conclave, have begun to arrive, and the Queen City, beaming upon them a kindly welcome, with thousands of fluttering banners, gaudy decorations and knight emblems.

J. W. THOMPSON.
J. R. CARMAN.
It is evident that the number of strangers attracted to the city by the supreme conclave will be 100,000, if it does not exceed that number.

It is thought that there will be 40,000 knights in the parade of Wednesday, over half of whom will be members of the uniform rank.

The advance guard of the approaching Knights of Pythias host arrived in the city Saturday night, and all day Sunday they kept coming in. Sunday night the arrivals became more frequent, and it kept the committee of reception busy receiving them. Instead of the peaceful rest and quietude that usually takes possession of Cincinnati on Sunday, there was the steady, rhythmic tramp, tramp of marching feet and the inspiring music of numerous bands.

Supreme Chancellor Douglas is the busiest man in Cincinnati, and is managing affairs in a way that shows his splendid executive abilities. His headquarters are at the Burnett house.

Unity division, Washington, D. C., Capt. Coggin commanding, was the first uniformed division to arrive. Following closely upon its heels came Nelson division, of the same city, and Palestine division, of Newark, O.

Justus H. Rathbone, the founder of the order, who wrote the first ritual and organized the first lodge, and who can justly be termed the father of the Knights of Pythias, came in with Nelson division. The following supreme officers are already here: D. B. Woodruff, past supreme chancellor, Macon, Ga.; Robert Newell, supreme inner guard; S. J. Willey, supreme master of exchequer; John W. Thompson, supreme outer guard; Dr. J. S. King, Toronto, Can., supreme prelate; R. L. C. White, supreme keeper of records and seals, and the following supreme representatives: J. H. Shepherd, Shreveport, La.; Joseph H. Spearling, New Orleans; D. C. Smith, Salem, Mass.; C. F. Bragg, Portland, Me.; G. B. Alexander, New York; G. B. Shaw, Eau Claire, Wis.; F. W. Bell, Eureka, Cal.; M. W. Brown, New Mexico; John H. Alexander, Leesburg, Va.; D. J. Turner, Jr., Norfolk, Va.; W. W. Blackwell, Henderson, Ky.; D. W. Rogers, Plainfield, Va.; H. W. Long, Banglaintown, N. J.

The arrivals Monday morning were as follows: Maryland brigade, Gen. H. C. Cox, headquarters, Crawford house; Excelsior division, No. 11, Trenton, N. J., Capt. W. C. Maule commanding; Omaha regiment, 'Leut. Col. J. A. Brown commanding; Black Prince division, Newark, N. J.

The First Arkansas regiment, 400 strong, Col. L. H. Frazier commanding, will arrive in the city this evening and make the St. James hotel their headquarters.

Monday night Douglas lodge gave a reception to all visiting knights at their elegant quarters at the corner of Sixth and Walnut.

At the Gibson Maj. Gen. Carnahan gave a reception to his staff.

This will no doubt be the most important session of the supreme lodge in the order's history, and it is expected it will not conclude its labors and adjourn inside of two weeks.

Among the matters of first importance that will come up will be that of the recent suspension by the supreme chancellor of all of the Pennsylvania lodges for insubordination. Since the suspension a new grand lodge of that state has been formed among the suspended members, and representatives both from this and the old organization will be before the supreme lodge demanding recognition. Many important amendments to the constitution have been suggested, and consideration of their adoption will consume much time.

Questions are to be considered in connection with the endowment rank, or insurance department, of the order, that are of vital importance also. The election of supreme officers and representatives, too, will require considerable time. Howard Douglas says he will not be a candidate for reelection to the office of supreme chancellor. There are 112 supreme officers and representatives, all of whom are now in the city.

Maj. Gen. Carnahan, of Indianapolis, commander-in-chief of the uniform rank, Knights of Pythias, of the world, arrived in the city Sunday, and established his headquarters at the Gibson house.

Gen. William Ward, of Newark, N. J., vice supreme chancellor of the world, will arrive in the city to-day, and will put up at the Burnett house.

A reporter met Justus H. Rathbone, the founder of the order, at his lodgings on Race street. He is a portly gentleman, and his face indicates a benevolent and kindly disposition. He is modest and unassuming, and nothing in his appearance or manner indicates that he realizes the grandeur of his position as the founder of one of the great organizations of the world.

From under his rather heavy eyebrows a pair of bright hazel eyes look at you unflinchingly. A massive head, crowned with abundant chestnut hair, among which are mixed threads of gray, an aquiline nose and a heavy mustache, shading a firm mouth, complete the rather striking ensemble of the man who will be a central figure in the vast knightly gathering of the week.

To the reporter Mr. Rathbone said: "The order of Knights of Pythias is in the best condition that it ever was and is growing rapidly. There are now 325,000 Knights of Pythias in this country. The financial standing of the order could not be better than it is. The present supreme conclave of the order promises to be the grandest in its history."

"How did you conceive the idea of organizing the order?" was asked.

"It was while reading the play of 'Damon and Pythias' that the idea struck me that the moral therein taught would be an excellent foundation upon which to rear a secret order or brotherhood, whose central idea should be pure, unselfish, self-sacrificing friendship. I called a few of my friends together on February 19, 1844, and we organized the Knights of Pythias. At this memorable meeting there were present, besides myself, Robert A. Champion, David L. Burnett, W. H. Burnett and Dr. Edward S. Kimball, all of Washington, D. C. Of these all are living except Robert A. Champion."

"When we formed that little lodge I had no idea that the order would reach the dimensions it has, or that any other lodge than the one we organized would ever come into existence."

THE DELHI TRAIN ROBBERS.

Baggage-master Ketcham Dead—Pinterton Detectives at Work.

CINCINNATI, June 12.—Interest in the attempted train robbery on the Big Four railroad last Friday night is unabated. The police, in conjunction with the railroad officers, are doing all in their power to apprehend the perpetrators. The death of Baggage-master Joseph Ketcham Saturday evening makes them murderers.

General Manager Fargo, of the American Express company, is registered at the St. Nicholas. He has brought with him several of Pinkerton's best men, and the work of apprehending the guilty parties will be prosecuted under the direction of Mr. Fargo with that skill and determination characteristic of express companies.

The railroad company will also do its share of the work. Mr. Ingalls has authorized the offer of $1,000 for their arrest, and several men are already at work.

An important arrest was made at 1 a. m. Shortly after midnight Merchants' Policeman Crawford telephoned Lieut. Fisher that a suspicious looking stranger had just taken lodging at Pat Dee's saloon, at Second and Sycamore. Night Chief Gill and that officer, accompanied by Detectives Tokor and Hudson, proceeded to the place at once.

The stranger was found asleep. On being aroused he appeared dazed when compelled to look into Policeman Crawford's bull's-eye lantern, and with confusion said: "I suppose this here is on account of that air train business."

When informed in the affirmative he added: "Now I'm innocent of this here and I don't want you to get up a big excitement or some darn mob'll pull me."

It was observed that his face was badly bruised and scratched, which he claimed was caused by running against the limb of a tree while in Indianapolis last week. His appearance tallies exactly with the description of one of the fellows seen under the tree all day Friday last. He wore a new slouch hat, which he claimed to have bought in Indianapolis. A small amount of cash was found in his pockets.

He first stated that he came to the city over the Big Four road and then corrected the statement by saying that he had arrived over the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton.

He could assign no reason for going from the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton depot to Dee's place for lodging.

Herman Noppert, a gardener in the employ of Capt. Hoffman, whose farm lies just alongside the track where the trainmen were assaulted, found two masks similar to the one picked up by the tollgatekeeper, Sam. Hisset, who lives only 500 feet away. The masks, now in possession of Chief Deitch, are of black alpaca, evidently torn from the inside lining of a coat. The finding of these masks were considered certain evidence that the scoundrels were bent on robbery, and that they were not merely trying to steal a ride, a theory advanced by many.

At 4 p. m. Saturday Baggage-master Ketcham's condition took an alarming turn. Hemorrhage followed hemorrhage, and half an hour later, surrounded by his devoted wife, father, brothers and sisters, he died.

The remains were taken to Greensburg, Ind., for burial.

A Wisconsin Tornado.
EAU CLAIRE, Wis., June 12.—A tornado swept across the country near this place Sunday from the southeast, tearing up the wooded country, but missing the villages. The tornado passed over Lake Chester with great speed, forming a huge waterspout. The entire population left their homes to watch the phenomenon and some of the observers estimate that the column of water was three hundred feet in height.

Longer Hours.
PITTSBURGH, June 12.—A change from three to two turns per day in the working forces in all mills operating under the Clapp-Griffith process of manufacturing steel, has been ordered. This will not reduce wages to any extent, but will throw a large number of men out of work, and compel those retaining positions to work four hours additional each day.

Action Again Postponed.
WASHINGTON, June 12.—At a meeting of the senate committee on the judiciary this morning action on the nomination of Mr. Melville W. Fuller was postponed till after the Chicago convention.

THE DEADLY MELINITE.

ONLY THE FRENCH KNOW THE SE-CRET OF ITS MANUFACTURE.

The Wonderful French Shell and Rifle.
The Kaiser and Bismarck Hold a Conference—Francis Joseph Desires Peace.
Col. King-Harman Dead—Other Notes.

LONDON, June 12.—Our officers at Woolwich have been for a long time engaged in testing explosives. The work has depended upon the will of the admiralty and has therefore, like all its operations, been slow. It is somewhat strange that England, which leads the world in manufactures of nearly every kind, should be in common with all other nations, in all its operations, been slow. It is somewhat strange that England, which leads the world in manufactures of nearly every kind, should be in common with all other nations, in all its operations, been slow.

The most of our experts have accomplished is to discover what France has without being able to produce it. Her most important secret is melinite, the mode of whose manufacture has not been discovered, save that our experts assure themselves that nitro-glycerine or picric acid is its chief element. It has all the way from five to ten times the force of gunpowder. It is more forceful even than gun cotton, with the advantage of being safely handled and of exploding with sufficient deliberation for use in large guns.

Her wonderful shell also is one that has defied thus far all efforts to duplicate it. So we have done the next best thing, and laid in a stock of all sizes up to eight inches at Woolwich. It is called the Firming shell, which, with melinite behind it, has been sent through mixed iron and steel twenty inches in thickness, and come out with its point unblunted. The secret lies in tempering them, and, since many are spoiled in the operation, they cost us a shilling a pound. A trick of this shell is sometimes, when lying in stock uncharged, to fly into a million pieces, so great is the tension between its particles.

The French rifle also, called the Lebel, is an unequalled magazine gun, which not only fires rapidly, but projects its missile, a small, compressed ball of about 33-caliber, to a distance of three miles. This is of course due to the explosive behind it, which is a smokeless powder. We have discovered that this smokeless powder is some form of pyroxylin, with some chemical or mechanical admixture to lessen its force or rather prolong its explosion.

We shall probably introduce the smokeless rifle, but if war were to now break out, we should be forced, as Germany is doing, to use gun cotton in our shells with melted paraffine poured in about it to prevent it from exploding when it would be most inconvenient to have it go off. Germany has a new explosive also, called roburite, but as yet less is known of it, and its efficiency is not so well determined as that of melinite.

The permission given by the French to Russia to purchase cannon, melinite and shells at the great Bironage factory is a somewhat exasperating event of the time.

Frederick and Bismarck.
LONDON, June 12.—Sunday's protracted interview between the emperor of Germany and Prince Bismarck, is thought by those who profess to know more about the present unsettled state of the contest for supremacy between the German empress and the chancellor, than has yet been made public to indicate a speedy termination of the semi-crisis in a compromise which shall spare the feelings of both parties.

In other words, it is to appear to the partisans of the empress that her majesty has triumphed, while the chancellor is to receive a sufficient measure of concession to enable him to recede gracefully from the rather arbitrary stand he has assumed. In so disposing of the matter, the emperor is confronted by a task extremely delicate and difficult, even for a man in perfect health and the full vigor of all his faculties.

He certainly cannot ignore the patient tenderness and almost idolatrous devotion of the empress to himself in his time of dire affliction, nor can he thrust aside the record of Prince Bismarck's earnest patriotism and remarkable services redounding to the greatness of the empire, to whose creation he more than any other living man contributed.

That Prince Bismarck has never liked the empress, and did everything in his power to prevent her marriage to Prince Frederick William of Prussia thirty years ago, is a fact which greatly militates against the successful accomplishment of his present purpose, and the feelings of resentment on the part of her majesty, which were aroused by his opposition, have been in no degree softened by the lapse of years.

Although the empress will without doubt score a victory over her aged and obstinate opponent in the event of the emperor's surviving another year, she has sufficient political acumen to perceive that to force the fight further now would seriously embarrass her husband, if it did not egregiously affect his already greatly impaired vitality, and bring about a complication of public affairs, the ultimate result of which would be menacing if not positively disastrous, to the peace of the country.

Herr Von Puttkammer has already been sacrificed upon the altar of the empress' resentment, and the probabilities are that her majesty will consider herself for the present appeased, while the chancellor will content himself with having forced cessation of hostilities, even though it be temporary.

Francis Joseph Also Desires Peace.
VIENNA, June 12.—Emperor Francis Joseph received the Austro-Hungarian delegations at Pesth, and addressing them, expressed his satisfaction with the amicable relations of Austria with the powers. The large military credits demanded did not, he said, indicate impending troubles, but were asked because the other European states had augmented their forces. He earnestly desired peace, and confidently believed it would continue.

The impression prevails that Russia has in fact decided upon a waiting policy in the east in hope of detaching Roumania and Servia from the Austrian influence now in control in those states.

Foreign Securities High.
LONDON, June 12.—Foreign securities have risen slowly under the more favorable aspect of continental politics, and the Boulanger fiasco in the French chamber of deputies.

The Spanish Cabinet Resigns.
MADRID, June 12.—The Spanish cabinet have resigned after accepting the resignation of Gen. Campos. This will enable Premier Sagasta to form a new Liberal cabinet.

Colonel King-Harman Dead.
LONDON, June 12.—Col. R. King-Harman, parliamentary secretary for Ireland, died Sunday, and so settled the vexed question of his salary in the British parliament.

Frederick Worse.
LONDON, June 12.—The Berlin correspondent of the St. James Gazette, sends a dispatch to that paper which says: Emperor Frederick is distinctly worse. He is suffering from severe pains. Lately the physicians have discovered a hole between the windpipe and gullet, which endangers the taking of food.

Foreign Notes.
Emperor Frederick's disquieting symptoms have nearly all disappeared.

The university festival is in progress at Bologna, and the city is crowded. America is represented by nine professors.

Benzon, a London gambler, lost 276,000 francs on the French races, but at the Washington club won during five sittings 470,000 francs.

It is rumored that another cabinet minister has resigned, and that Count Von Munster will be recalled from the German embassy at Paris.

Russia will contribute $125,000 toward holding an exhibition of Russia manufactures in Bucharest, Roumania. Some ulterior object is suspected of pushing Russian influence.

No leading paper of London made mention of either the coming or going of Mr. Blaine. An American statesman after all is nobody compared with the latest Hohenzollern spring chicken, or even the kiug of the Canibal islands.

THE FISK-STOKES TRAGEDY.

The Woman in the Case Was Minnie White, a Former Resident of Maysville.

The recent-rumored death of the notorious Josie Mansfield has revived the Fisk-Stokes tragedy that occurred at the Grand Central Hotel, New York, in January, 1872, and in which Fisk lost his life. Recent revelations show that the woman in the case was not Josie Mansfield, but was Minnie White, who, at one time, was a resident of Maysville. This White woman is well remembered by many of our older citizens.

In reference to the matter a New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Enquirer says:

"Any reawakening of interest in the matter is extremely repugnant to the quiet, unobtrusive and popular man (Stokes) whose keen business ability has made the Hoffman House and its cafe the most talked-of public resort in this country. But the recent discussion has induced him to talk frankly on the subject to a few of his intimates. As a consequence, let me say, although the declaration will be received with incredulous surprise, that Josie Mansfield was in no way related to the woman in the Grand Central Hotel in January, 1872. For sixteen years she has been spoken of as the woman in the contest for whose favor Fisk fell. As a matter of fact Fisk had long before his death abandoned Josie Mansfield for Montaland, the ballet-dancer, and subsequently for another woman who lived with her mother, brother and two sisters at the Grand Central Hotel, where the killing of Fisk took place. The origin of the fatal quarrel was really in an oil refinery belonging to Stokes' mother, and which Fisk was so desirous of forcing into the then embryotic Standard Oil combination that he persecuted and pursued Stokes with hired detectives of the Erie Railroad until Stokes turned and shot him. It is true that Stokes and Josie Mansfield were close friends at this time, but she had ceased to have any relations with Fisk. And yet there was a woman in the case."

Let me tell the story. I sat in the Hoffman House restaurant at breakfast with a friend and saw her pass. Mr. Stokes sat at another table, and I saw him and my friend exchange glances and a smile as she went by the windows. Both evidently recognized her. She was portly, and had passed the middle age. Her hair was tinged with gray. She had once been a handsome woman, and had been notorious for years. I asked who she was. "I will tell you later on," was his reply, and subsequently did so, beginning with the remark: "That was the woman in the Fisk case." Then he told me the remarkable story in detail, which has never been published, to my knowledge. I suppress the present name of the woman, as it is that of a renowned officer of the army who was the hero of a remarkable engineering feat of the late war that saved to the Union cause a fleet of gunboats. This woman was his wife. She was from Lexington, Ky., where she was known as Minnie White. At a very early age she drifted into wild life in New Orleans. She had a husband who went into the Confederate service, but that did not deter her from marrying General B—, of the Union forces. After the occupation of New Orleans by Butler the force under General B— was for a long time confronted by the Confederates under her first husband. She frequently passed from one camp to the other, and she so managed that a large amount of cotton was carried to New Orleans for her account. General Butler seized it. Her husband in the Union army suddenly and mysteriously died. She was arrested, charged with his taking off. A Court-martial, held by General James B. Steedman, of Ohio, tried her, but could not prove her guilt, and she was released. But Butler held on to the cotton. She went to Washington and appealed to President Johnson to release her contraband goods, and did not appear in vain. But there rose a scandal, and Johnson had to fight a little shy of her for a time. She had some sort of connection with the famous "French arms scandal" of Johnson's administration, and was supposed to be the woman who negotiated the sale of arms to the French Government. She came to New York and for a time lived with James Fisk, Jr., before he met her Mansfield, Montaland or the Morse woman.

Now for the inner history. On the day of the shooting of Fisk, Edward S. Stokes was passing the Grand Central Hotel when Mrs. General B—, beckoned to him from the parlor window, and he crossed the street and joined her in the public parlor. He knew nothing of the presence of friends of Fisk in the hotel, nor that he visited the place. After some conversation Mrs. B— left by the entrance for ladies, Stokes agreeing to remain until she was fairly out of the way. As she left the hotel door Fisk's carriage drove up. She stepped into a drug store, frightened at the prospects of the two women meeting. A moment later Fisk had entered. She ran to the door to prevent a meeting. Too late! Stokes, at the head of the stairs, had fired, Fisk fell on the steps. Mrs. B— picked up the pistol which fell from Fisk's hand and fled with it. Fisk's pistol never could be found, but sending Stokes' trial the woman told him what she had done, and offered to produce the weapon and testify to the facts for $10,000 in cash. The friend who tells me this was a friend of Stokes and of one of his lawyers, and at their request he investigated the character of the woman. It was so bad that the defense did not dare to call her in, even if they could have brought themselves to the point of paying for the woman's testimony. General Steedman knew her career in New Orleans and Washington. Her cross-examination on the trial would have brought out the facts in regard to Johnson, with whom Steedman was friendly, and he gave the woman the worst character he could. Thus it happened that the woman and the pistol in the Fisk case were never produced.

The correspondent gives Lexington as the White woman's former residence, but in this he is mistaken. She spent her early life in this city. Her parents came to Maysville from Virginia. Her father's name was Caleb White, and the family during their residence here was one of the most respectable in this section. Miss White is said to have been one of the prettiest and most attractive young ladies in this city at the time. The family resided on East Third street. They moved to Louisiana just before the war.

And any one else does that has the love for his home at heart.

THE WORK GOES ON.

What Was Done at the Mass Meeting of the Free Turnpikers.

The mass meeting at the court house yesterday afternoon in the interest of free turnpikes brought together a considerable crowd, but the attendance was not quite as large as had been expected. The statement was made that the parties living along the route of the Middle Trace road were all in favor of the movement, and the rain and tobacco season no doubt kept many away who otherwise would have been on hand.

The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock. On motion of Judge Coons, Colonel Charles A. Marshall, of Washington, was elected chairman. Hawthorne Hill, W. P. Campbell and M. F. Marsh were chosen secretaries, on motion of T. C. Campbell, Esq.

A brief statement was then made by T. C. Campbell, Esq., of what had been done by the parties interested—the citizens of Maysville had subscribed $1,075; they had bought the Middle Trace Turnpike (Northern Division); they had secured an appropriation of $2,500 from the Court of Claims to aid in placing the road in repair, then to be operated as a free pike, as an experiment to see how the plan would work. Three hundred dollars of the appropriation made by the county had been expended, but the company had been enjoined from using the rest of it by Colonel Baldwin, Mr. C. B. Pearce, the Maysville and Lexington, and the Maysville and Mt. Sterling turnpike companies. No matter how this suit might be finally settled, it would be a year at least, probably much longer, before the money could be had, if at all. The work of repairing had been stopped, and the object of the meeting was to see whether $2,500 could not be raised by subscription. The people along the route were as much interested as the citizens of Maysville. He for one was ready to double his subscription. If the $2,500 could be raised, and the injunction was dissolved, then the money from the county could be used in extending the road to connect with the Lewisburg and Mayslick pike.

County Clerk Ball followed Mr. Campbell, briefly. He said it was a mistaken idea on the part of some people that they were acting through any spirit of ill will towards the stockholders of the big turnpike corporations. Maysville and Mason County were much interested in establishing a system of free pikes, and the present movement was an experiment or move in that direction. He thought it best to appoint a committee to solicit subscriptions and see what could be done towards raising the needed money.

Mr. Campbell then stated that the Jersey Ridge pike was free of tolls. It was a short road and the people along the route kept it up by paying 10 cents an acre every year.

Colonel Marshall then spoke for a few minutes. He said there were a few main roads running into this city and the small pikes constructed in the county had benefited the owners of these main lines as much if not more than anybody else, and if the county now saw fit to appropriate a small sum to place one of these small roads in repair he didn't think the big corporations ought to object. He could not say, however, just how far he was in favor of free pikes. If they cost no more than the present system of toll roads then he was in for them. The farmers didn't want to be bothered with gates. He was satisfied the people along the route of the Middle Trace pike were willing to pay at the rate of 10 cents an acre per year to keep it up as a free road.

At the conclusion of the remarks, Messrs. George Wood, A. R. Glasecock, Robert Hunter, James N. Kirk, W. W. Ball, Colonel Frank S. Owens and John T. Parker were appointed a committee to solicit subscriptions to the $2,500 needed, and the meeting adjourned till Saturday afternoon, June 23rd, at 2 o'clock.

Parties going must take the regular train to-morrow morning.

A TRIP TO VANCEBURG.

A Pleasant Ride Over the New Road to the Capital of Lewis and Return.

A party of about forty ladies and gentlemen enjoyed a free ride yesterday afternoon to Vanceburg and return over the Maysville and Big Sandy Railroad. The train consisted of a caboose, one gondola ("observation" car) and engine No. 18. One car-load of freight for commissaries was taken up to the gravel-pits above Manchester. The excursion was gotten up on short notice, and passenger coaches were not to be had.

Mr. A. M. Glenn, who is superintending the construction of the road from this city down the river, had charge, with Mr. Simon R. Camp hold of the throttle. The train pulled out from the foot of Sutton street at a quarter to 4 o'clock, and Vanceburg was reached shortly before 6. Many stops were made en route and there were delays at a number of points on account of the construction trains. The return trip was made under about the same circumstances, and in about the same time, the train pulling up in front of the St. Charles Hotel at 8 o'clock.

Two of the directors of the road were on board—Hon. W. H. Wadsworth and Colonel Frank S. Owens. To these and to Messrs. Robert Ficklin, agent of the Kentucky Central, and A. M. Glenn, the crowd were indebted for the free ride, special invitations having been extended by them. The party consisted of the following: Hon. W. H. Wadsworth, Colonel Frank S. Owens, Judge Whitaker, Judge Coons, County Clerk Ball, Sheriff Perrine, Deputy Sheriff Alexander, Jailor Fitzgerald, County Attorney Newell, School Superintendent Galbraith, and Messrs. L. W. Robertson, W. S. Frank, Stanley Lee, D. C. Frazee, Joseph H. Dodson, D. R. Lindsay and son, W. D. Hixson, John T. Kackley, Dr. W. S. Moore, E. C. Lambden, J. T. Long, Frank Perry, Robert Ficklin, T. R. Phister, A. M. J. Caceran, T. C. Campbell, Dr. H. K. Adamson, Hon. E. L. Worthington, S. B. Wadsworth, A. R. Burgess, Mr. Jenney, an attorney of Cincinnati, Hawthorne Hill, Charles Wood, M. J. McCarthy, Clarence Dobyns, C. C. Calhoun, Will Power, James C. Owens, M. F. Marsh and Mrs. Robert Ficklin and her guest, Miss Manie Wilson, and Misses Belle Davis Phister and Etta Everett.

The road is in fine condition for one not yet entirely ballasted.

The crowd were indebted to Mr. D. R. Lindsay, the accommodating and clever-hearted proprietor of the St. Charles Hotel, for furnishing the gondola with chairs.

It was Engineer Camp's first trip over the new road. He arrived yesterday morning from the C. & O. Road.

Mr. Glenn rendered himself popular by his clever treatment and the kindly interest he manifested in making the trip an enjoyable one to all.

There is trouble in the neighborhood of Springdale and some of the farmers have loaded their shotguns and are out on the war path. Tobacco plants are at the bottom of the anticipated battle.

Some of the farmers of that section are not as careful and industrious as others, and in consequence of the fly, dry weather and other causes they have no tobacco plants. The careful and industrious and more fortunate class had plenty, but lo! and behold, on going to their beds yesterday morning they were surprised to find the plants all gone, at least the nicest and best to be had. Such is the report that reaches the BULLETIN. Hence, the preparations for war.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

MR. DEPEW WILL NOT BE IN THE PRESIDENTIAL RACE.

The Globe-Democrat Responsible for the Statement—Senator Voorhees Interviewed Concerning the Democratic Nominee—Other Political Gossip.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—The Globe Democrat publishes the following:

"Mr. Depew will not be a candidate." This exceedingly important declaration is quoted from a private letter just received from New York. The letter is addressed to a gentleman who is one of the delegates-at-large from a western state, and who will be a prominent figure in the convention. The announcement of Mr. Depew's conclusion is from a gentleman in his confidence and is regarded by the recipient as entirely authoritative.

The letter was shown to the correspondent of the Globe-Democrat, and this is the publication of its contents. The explanation of Mr. Depew's position is this: He has satisfied himself fully, by careful inquiry, that he is not the most available man for the party to nominate. He believes that he could carry New York, but he believes that his record as a railroad president and corporation lawyer might cost some northwestern votes. Having satisfied himself on this score, he counts himself out of the list.

The letter which contains this very interesting bit of news also brings the information that there is no likelihood of the New York delegation acting together in the support of any one candidate. Assurances had been given Mr. Depew of nearly the entire vote of the New York delegation, but now that he will not be before the convention all the present indications are against a concentration on any other man. It is believed that Sherman will get a dozen votes out of New York; that Gresham will get fully as many, and that the remainder will be distributed impartially. Hiscock may get a few complimentary votes on the first ballot from New York delegates, but it is certain that he will not get the full vote of the state, or anything like it. The best information that can be got points to a general scattering of the New York vote.

Denied by Depew.

NEW YORK, June 12.—The subject of the letter published in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat to the effect that Mr. Depew is not a candidate for the nomination at Chicago, was this afternoon brought to Mr. Depew's notice by a United Press reporter. Mr. Depew replied that he had no friend in New York who could or would write such a letter as alleged. If such a letter had been written, he (Depew) pronounced it unwarranted and untrue.

Irish and German Votes.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Senator Sherman's friends feel that he is growing stronger each day. This morning Mr. Sherman received a letter from one of the most influential and widely acquainted Republicans in California assuring him that he could carry the Pacific states by a handsome majority, and pointed to Oregon as an indication of the manner how things were going out there.

While Mr. Sherman was in New York he was called upon by a committee of twenty prominent Irish-American presidents of tariff clubs, who told him that they wanted him to know that they would support him heartily and earnestly. They said that Blaine had been their choice, but as he was out of the way the whole Irish-American vote would be cordially cast for Sherman.

Several of the wealthiest and most prominent German-Americans of New York and New Jersey also called on Senator Sherman and assured him that he had the confidence and esteem of themselves and their friends. Sherman now has definite pledges of support from the citizens of foreign blood that stood so well by Mr. Blaine which will make him the most available candidate before the convention.

Voorhees Interviewed.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 12.—Senator Voorhees is at his home for a few days. He thus comments upon the Democratic nominations:

"The ticket will command itself more and more every day to the best judgment of the country. Within the last fifty years no man in the White House has inspired the American people with greater confidence in his courage, capacity and honesty than Grover Cleveland. That he will be re-elected I have no manner of doubt."

"As to the second place on the ticket. While the Democracy worked hard for the nomination of Governor Gray, the name of Allen G. Thurman is dear to us all, and he will raise the earnest and affectionate support of every Democrat in the state. Neither Governor Gray nor any of his friends will falter for a moment, and from this time until November the Democratic party of Indiana will set an example of united hard work for the cause which the party in other states will do well to imitate. In my judgments we shall carry Indiana."

A Newspaper's Warning.

CHICAGO, June 12.—A Tribune special from Omaha, Neb., says: The Bee this morning says editorially that the Nebraska delegation is for Depew, and warns the party that in case Depew is nominated the Bee will not support him, but will place a separate Republican electoral ticket in the field, for independent and anti-monopoly Republican support.

New York Lathers Strike.

NEW YORK, June 12.—All the lathers in the city went out on a strike this morning for better wages and shorter hours. The demands are $4 a day, work nine hours a day except on Saturday, when they fix it at eight. At present the wages are about $3 lower than they have ever been before. A meeting at which 150 men were present was held this morning. Nothing of importance was done except to appoint a committee to visit the bosses and report to a meeting which will be held to-night.

James Walsh Arrives in New York.

NEW YORK, June 12.—James Walsh, the Irish patriot and who was suspected of being implicated in a plot similar to the Burke-Cavendish assassination, arrived in this city to-day on the steamer Normandie. P. McKenna, of the Clan-na-Gael, of Chicago, arrived on the same steamer.

A Jockey Dies From His Injuries.

A KENTUCKY MOB

Have a Necktie Party With a Lecherous Hurtle at Henderson.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 12.—At Henderson, Ky., twelve miles below here, at 1 o'clock Sunday night, James Foster, colored, was taken from jail by a mob and hanged.

Foster was arrested Thursday morning at the instance of John Howard, charged with outraging the latter's little eight-year-old daughter, a few miles from Henderson, in the country. Foster, on being arrested, strenuously denied his guilt, but most conclusive evidence of his guilt was found on his clothing, which was stained with blood.

The greatest indignation was created throughout the neighborhood, and threats of lynching were heard on all sides. A mob came in from the country Sunday night, but they found Jailer Johnson on the alert, and they returned to their homes, determined to come back and avenge the brutal crime. As the quiet little city was asleep at midnight two hundred Kentuckians, mounted on horseback and armed to the teeth, to repel any official resistance, rode into the city. Pulling up at the jail, they made a dash for the barred doors, and before the jailer was fully alarmed they were inside. Breaking down the cell door, they dragged the lecherous brute out into a vehicle started with him to the scene of his crime before the town was aware of the intrusion.

All along the road the prisoner begged and beseeched his captors to spare his life, and told all manner of stories to prove his innocence. But Kentuckians have learned to turn deaf ears to the pleas of those who so cruelly wreck and stain the fair name of the state, and when the party had arrived at the woods where the outrage was committed they selected a strong oak, threw the fatal rope over a limb, and strung the wretch up. Then they quietly dispersed.

One of the Tammanyites Missing.

ST. LOUIS, June 12.—The whereabouts of Dennis McGinty, a leading member of the Tammany organization of New York, are not known by his friends, as well as the police of this city, who have been searching for him, as his friends are very much alarmed for his safety. When the club left this city after the convention he was missed, but it was supposed by his friends that he was on his way home, and they paid no more attention to the matter until the club arrived home, when inquiries about McGinty showed that he has not yet been seen in New York. Chief Huebner has received several telegrams from New York assuring him to do all within his power to find McGinty. The entire city was searched by the police, but McGinty could not be found.
